

Are you trying to communicate with troops, have meetings with doctors in different hospitals or just looking to demonstrate a procedure. SMART have products that allow you to have video conferences in more than one location and be able to annotate, scribble and make notes that are visible in every location. For example, hospitals can discuss surgeries and procedures using the software and interactive whiteboards without leaving the hospital. Similarly, this can be used in companies with more than one office location, you can have meetings without having to leave your office, and be able to share and annotate the meeting.
